

HOMEWORK POLICY

Rationale

At Haresfield Primary School we recognise the importance of homework however we also believe that it is important that children should have time to pursue other interests during their spare time and it is not our intention to invade the special time which parents share with their children at home. We do not seek to delegate the role of teacher to parents; this is our professional responsibility, but we do seek the partnership and support of parents in providing as full a learning experience as possible. Homework is therefore not schoolwork carried out at home but work that will reinforce, practice and prepare for class based learning. We also believe that homework does not necessarily mean formal written work and that 'finding out' activities play a vital role in learning and are very valuable.

The amount and type of homework set varies to suit the differing needs of year groups and individuals and is based on the DFES Guidelines, Homework Guidelines for Primary and Secondary Schools, November 1998.

Aims

- To ensure a consistent and progressive approach to homework;
- To consolidate, reinforce and extend pupils' learning;
- To be flexible to adapt homework to suit the needs of different pupils;
- To provide opportunities for parents, pupils and the school to work in partnership;
- To support pupils' progress towards becoming independent learners and developing long term learning strategies;
- To prepare our older pupils for the rigours of homework on moving onto secondary education.

A curriculum-based assignment may be set if relevant to the class topic , this maybe set over several weeks or even over a half term.

Teachers will give further details of homework expectations and deadlines in each term's class newsletter.

Please note

Teachers will not provide homework for children to complete during holidays taken in term time. We consider all holidays as just that and therefore under normal circumstances homework will not be set. There is a difference between homework and 'blended learning'. During unique circumstances the school will provide blended learning for children to complete if they are unable to attend school due to self-isolation. A separate policy has been written to cover this situation.

Role of Parents

We encourage parents to support pupils in doing their tasks at home by:

- Becoming actively involved in homework activities.
- Providing a peaceful, suitable place for pupils to work in – alone, or for younger pupils, together with an adult.
- Showing pupils that they value homework and by explaining how it can help their learning.
- Encouraging pupils and praising them when they have completed homework.

Monitoring and Reviewing

The Headteacher is responsible for monitoring that the type and amount of homework set is appropriate through checking samples of homework from two classes each long term. There are also opportunities for the head to monitor the My Maths online learning periodically.

All staff are involved in reviewing the homework policy in accordance with the School Improvement Plan. Parents' and older pupils' comments will be sought.
